THE GAYETIES AND ACTIVITIES OF THE WEEK

The Lover's Litany.

Eyes of gray-a sodden quay, Driving rain and falling tears, As the steamer wears to sea In a parting storm of cheers-Sing, for Faith and Hope are high-None so true as you and I-Sing the Lovers' Litany-'Love like ours can never die!"

Eyes of black-a throbbing keel, filky foam to left and right; Whispered converse near the wheel In the brilliant tropic night: Cross that rules the southern sky Stars that sweep, and wheel and fly, Hear the Lovers' Litany-"Love like ours can never die!"

Eyes of brown-a dusty plain Split and parched with the heat of June; Flying hoof and tightened rein, Hearts that beat the old, old tune. Side by side the horses fly, Frame we now the old reply Of the Lovers' Litany-

"Love like ours can never die!" Eyes of blue-the Simla Hills Silvered with the moonlight hoar; Pleading of the waltz that thrills, Dies and echoes round Benmore. "Mabel," "Officers," "Good-bye," Glamor, wine and witchery-On my soul's sincerity

"Love like ours can never die!" Maidens, of your charity, Fity my most luckless state; Four times Cupid's debtor I-Bankrupt in quadruplicate. Yet, despite this evil case, And a maiden showed me grace Four and forty times would I Sing the Lovers' Lita -

"Love like ours can never die!" -Rudyard Kipling.

Porch and garden parties, generally so popular during the month of June, have not been much in evidence this season. The cold, rainy weather has not been at all conducive to such modes of entertainment. Many parties of this kind were planned during the past few weeks, which had to be given up at the last moment on account of the inclement weather. There was one plucky hostess, however, who was determined that the bad weather should not spoil her plans. She had arranged a charming garden tea and had gone to a great deal of trouble to make the affair a success. All had gone well until the appointed day. Then the rain came down in torrents, turning the lawn and garden into a miniature lake. The idea of the fifty invited guests to be entertained seemed rather overwhelming. But the clever little woman went bravely to work. Arranging her house with all the Japanese lights, cozy gardens and other attractions intended for the yard, she succeeded in giving one of the most delightful indoor garden pasties imaginable.

Husbands and Wives.

Philadelphia Telegraph. "Women are queer, aren't they?" said the man on the porch next door.

"What now?" said the other man. "I spent the night out at Jim's last week. He lives at Ardmore, you know. Jim's got a nice wife. But I wonder how he ever

"Is he so devoted?" "Humph! At breakfast it was, 'Now, Miss Helen Walker, a niece, will carry the Jim, you know you, musn't drink but one cup of coffee. It isn't good for you.' Jim tried to look cheerful. Then, when the William I. Walker and daughter Helen, of roll's came on, she said, 'Now, dear, don't eat the inside of those hot rolls. It will give you dyspensia.' After breakfast she tagged after him in the hall, and it was, Jim, you had better wear your light over- city, and the bridegroom O. H. Amthor, coat; it is chilly. And take your umbrella; also of Indianapolis. Chester Railsback it looks like rain.' And as we went out the door what do you think she said?"

" Jim, dear, now please don't jump off

'Oh, well,' I said, 'it only shows how | they will be at home at the Oriental Hotel much she thinks of you.' "Made me lug along a gallon jug of water when I went to Chicago. Said the water on the train might make me sick'he felt pretty sore, I think. "Told me to lock the door carefully, and, by gum, I think she was going to tell me to look under the bed, but I told her I had been away from home before.' "Oh, well, she means well," I told him. It must make a fellow feel pretty sore, though, to be treated like a baby, especially when some of the boys are there." "You bet," said the other man. "I think," said the first speaker, "I'd tell her privately what I thought about it. J know I wouldn't let my wife make a bloomin' fool of me in that way." Just then the door opened and a woman

"Henry," she said, "you'll get cold sitting out on that porch with no coat on. Put your coat on now or come in." Henry hesitated a moment. Then he said: 'Hand me my coat.'

"Here it is. But I think you had better come in. It is too cold anyway." Henry rose. "Will you come in, Sam?" 'No," said Sam. Henry went in. Sam lit a cigar reflecsively and walked slowly down the street.
